2025 Food Truck Social – Marketing & Promotion Summary

To spread the word about the 2025 Food Truck Social, the Lombard Historical Society used a mix of online, print, and on-site promotion to reach as many people in the community as possible. Our goal was to make sure families, neighbors, and visitors all knew about the event and to highlight the Village grant program for helping make it happen.

How We Promoted the Event

- Social Media

We shared regular posts on Facebook and Instagram in the weeks leading up to the event. These included:

- Event announcements
- Food truck and vendor spotlights
- Entertainment features
- Countdown and day-of reminders

The Village grant program was mentioned in post captions and featured on many of the graphics.

- Email Newsletters

The event was shared in our email newsletters sent to our members and subscribers. These emails included event details, images, and a thank-you to the Village grant program for their support.

- Website & Community Calendars

The Food Truck Social was listed on:

- The Lombard Historical Society website
- Local online community calendars

The website listing also included recognition of the Village grant program.

- Flyers & Posters Around Town

Printed flyers and posters were shared at the museum and posted at local businesses around Lombard. These materials included a thank-you and logo for the Village grant program.

- At-the-Event Recognition

During the event, we displayed signage thanking the Village grant program and gave verbal shout-outs during announcements.

Giving Credit to the Village Grant Program
